Red Sox Gather at the Braves'

Field for Further and Sharper Practice.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—Activities attendant upon the opening here Saturday of the world's series between the Brooklyn champions of the National League and the Boston American League title holders multiplied today.

The Red Sox gathered at Braves' chief this morning for further and canharper practice and took part in a conference which Manager Carrigan had called last night. It was called early for the purpose of working out signals and strategy to be tested in a practice game this afternoon. The Brooklyns made no movement to hasten to the scene of the curtain raising and did not plan to arrive here until late in the day. Through its series here with the Boston Nationals, the team has gained a good knowledge of conditions at Braves field, which Man-ager Robinson though sufficient prep-aration for the test.

for Hughes," Mr. Robins said. "I didn't think so until the passage of the Adamson bill. I am certain that for every vote the president won as a result of that legislation, he has lost three votes. The American people do not believe in false use of public sentiment. The Adamson bill is not an eight-hour law. It is a wage-raising law and increases the pay of the organized railroad men twenty per cent. The president did not consider the rights of the railroads or the public in general in demanding passage of the Adamson bill. I am against it because it care for the cause of labor. If highly organized and influential labor organizations can use the government for labor purposes, it leaves the door open for highly organized capitalist organizations to do the same thing.
